LEAVENWORTH,

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1854.

Our Position.

We had thought our position on the "sla very question," in Kansas, was so well understood, that no one need misunderstand it. But in this it seems we are mistaken. Upon all questions affecting the interests of our Territory, we have nothing to conceal. But in discussing measures of public policy, we have ever thought, that little good is effected by vituperation and abuse—and have therefore avoided the "slang whanging" phrases of the common pot house politicians. The veriest loafer in the land may use such arguments, and gain a triumph, but it is such a triumph, as no highminded right thinking gentleman would wish to

In a late number of the Platte Argus, we are denounced as rendering aid and comfort to the free soilers, and encouraging and endorsing the emigrating and societies, and that our paper is on a par, with the Herald of Freedom, an abolition paper; and that while we have attempted to conceal the character of the paper, under the garb of neutrality, one of the proprietors avowed himself in Weston friendly to the election of Fleniken the free soil candidate. It is also charged that we treat a "free soil paper out of Kansas, with marked courtesy and profound respect," while we do "not condescend to notice a pro-slavery paper." It is also charged that we proclaimed ourselves neutral on the slavery question, and This same paper also charges, that after neutrality, -in part, and now pretend friend- did not that paper then raise the cry of Abship for Gen. Whitfield. And we are olitionism? It knew Gen. Whitfield was

This the Platte Argus denics, and resorts to its favorite weapon, by raising the cry of abolitionist, thinking thereby to arouse the prejudice of the public mind against the paper we publish. The object is well understood, and the writer of the article known, though it appears as editorial, it was written by an outsider, and by the very man too who "forced" an article before on the nominal editors of the Argus. If it were not known that the writer of that article. has an unrelenting hatred to Leavenworth because he could not get in as one of the original proprietors, and has since obtained an interest in another town, that he is trying to build up, by decrying this place, we might be disposed to attribute different motives than what we believe now actuates him. But the ear marks stick out so plain, that none need be deceived.

We will convict the Argus of either ignorantly or willfully misrepresenting our position on the slavery question, by the files of our paper. We will show too that we have occupied no neutral position. The Argus with an ingenuity, only becoming a pettifogging lawyer, makes no distinction between the present and former editor of the Herald, but connects us with a controversy with which we had nothing to do.

But now to the files of our paper. In the Herald of Oct. 20, in which our address to the "Patrons of the Herald," appeared, and which was before we took charge of the paper, as the paper itself will show, we

Does this look like 'neutrality' with which the Argus charges us? But to clinch the misrepresentation of the Argus to the counter as base coin, we will quote from another article in the same paper of the same date. Speaking of the Nebraska bill we

"This bill repeals the Missouri Compromise which was an unjust restriction upon the rights of the people of the South.'

Speaking of those who supported the bill,

"They have not attempted to control the institutions of this Territory by any outside influences. They have not formed associations or leagues, or contributed money for hiring and importing voters into the Terri-

And yet we are charged with a bold effrontery by the Argus, with not letting an opportunity pass before the election, to give a word of 'encouragement and endorsement of the Emigrating Aid Societies.'

In our paper of November 10th, we say:
"The Herald of Freedom," purporting to be published in Wakarusa, is endorsed by Eli Thayer, which is enough to condemn affections cling closer to him than a Leach, and may be know that he has found one whose affections cling closer to him than a Leach, and it with every right minded man. We are sorry it has appropriated a portion of the name of our paper to its abolition incendiarism. The Kansas Herald has no affinities with the Herald of Freedom.'

And yet the Argus pretends to insinuate that the Kansas Herald approximates in its views to the Herald of Freedom. A statement as utterly devoid of truth, as the writer of the article is of brains.

In the Herald of Nov. 17th, we gave a synopsis of Gen. Whitfield's speech, which that we would not answer their questions. is exactly in accordance with the statements in our article on the Election, to which the finding out the strong side, we dropped our Argus now takes great exceptions. Why charged with misstating Gen. Whitfield's here on the ground, to falsify the charges they now make ageinst us. We then said This is the sum and substance of the that Gen. Whitfield would be a formidable charges arrayed against us in the last Platte competitor in the race. Gen. W. and his Argus, on account of an article we wrote friends here know, that we supported him on "the election." In that article we stated, from the very day he declared himself a Gen. W. > The Herald of Nov. 24, which is before the election, says:

It is enough to endure white abolitionists but the importation of black ones, would make the greivance

Thus the Kansas Herald spoke, from the time we took charge of it to the election. Those who know the facts here only laugh at the article in the Platte Argus. And mour estimation it only betrays the stupidity of the writer of that article that he should suppose he could identify us with free soilers and abolitionists-a class of persons whom we have warred against all our life. But if occasion hereafter requires we shall unmask the writer, and present him to the public as an enemy to our town, and also to the paper.

bout central to a country that is susceptible of a large and dense population, and everything points to this place as the centre of a county that will be formed, making it of necessity a county seat.

There is an abundance of lime stone rock, inexhaustible veins of stone coal in the immediate vicinity, which have been tested, and proved to be good. Added to all these there is good tim-ber, good soil, and good water adjoining the town. There are several fine springs of clear running water on and adjoining the town tract, and but a few miles west is where the old Delaware Mills were established, said to be an excellent mill site.

The town will be surveved immediately and plats made, but no public sale of lots will take place before next spring. But in order to accommodate those who want to build this winter a few lots will be sold at private sale.

An examination of the premises, will not fail to convice any one, of the superior claims of Jacksonville. The great body of the travel from the regson of country bordering on the Mo. River, from Weston down to Parkville, crossing, to the valley of the Kansas must pass through this place.

We have submitted a few facts to the public to elieit thieir attention. A glance at the country will afford a view the most picturesque and lovely the eye ever rested upon. A rare chance is now offered to the poor man, the speculator, and all who want to make money. Here is the place to buy bargains.
